FD-302a (Rev. 11-15-83)

29D-LR-35063

been thin when he arrived in Washington but had gained a significant amount of weight while working at the White House. ANTHONY believes that the weight gain may be at least partly attributable to the fact that FOSTER was not eating well and was eating quite a bit of fast food due to the overwork situation. FOSTER began to lose weight during the last six weeks prior to his death and weighed much less than he had weighed in January 1993. However, ANTHONY is unable to estimate the amount of weight FOSTER lost in terms of pounds. FOSTER did not mention to ANTHONY any problems with headaches, loss of appetite, indigestion or vomiting.

Among the activities which FOSTER engaged in to relax was reading. FOSTER had a swimming pool in the back yard of his home in Little Rock, and he and the family enjoyed swimming in their pool. FOSTER also enjoyed cooking and traveling, and he took his family on numerous trips. FOSTER did not participate in many sports, but he enjoyed attending his childrens' games and watching them play. ANTHONY did not observe any recent changes in FOSTER's interests or hobbies after he arrived in Washington.

FOSTER typically worked Monday through Saturday each week. On alternating Sundays, either FOSTER or BERNARD NUSSBAUM was on standby duty to be available to deal with matters which arose at the White House Counsel's office.

In terms of describing FOSTER's relationship with his wife, ANTHONY regarded it as warm and real. FOSTER was married to LISA FOSTER for approximately twenty-five years. ANTHONY regarded FOSTER as an excellent father who spent much time with his children. In particular, FOSTER was very conscientious about spending time with each of his children so that they each received individual attention. FOSTER would occasionally take one of the children on a trip with him just so the child could receive this individual attention. FOSTER was very interested in everything that his children did.

sometimes the very first day. He felt it was very important for FOSTER to start sleeping better and chought that if he got some rest chat he would feel a lot better. He did not think that FOSTER was gignificantly depressed nor had Foster given the impression that he was "in crisis". From what FoSTER told him. FOSTER's condition sounded mild and situational. WATKINS advised that he was only a little bit alarmed in that FoSTER had insisted on talking to him directly instead of discussing things through his nurse.

After FOSTER's death, wATKINS spoke with a psychiatrist and asked him whether any suicides had been linied to Desvrel and was told they had not. WATKINS advised he was particularly giad. in retrospect. that he had not prescribed prozac. inasmuch as Prozac has been associated with some sulcides. He advired that he did not even ask FOSTER if he had thought about suicide or was having any suicidal ideation because the symptoms that FOSTER was describing were not severe enough to cause WATKINS to trink that he might be in that scate. WATKINS handles depression all the time among his patrents. He said that it is a very, very common thing. He had cold FOSTER to let him know how he was doing and was not particularly concerned about follow-up because he knew that either FOSTER would get back to him or WATKINS would Eind out through LISA how FOSTER was doing because his contact with the family was fairly frequent. He was aware that LISA and VINCE FOSTER had discussed the Desyrel. He did not know whether he had told LISA beforehand that he had called Dr. WATKINS and discusset depression but he knew that LISA knew about it after the fact and they had discussed ir.

WATKINS advised that he never prescribed beta blockers for FOSTER to help him with stress, which he would do for some attorneys during litigation or other high stress periods to calm them down. He also advised that FOSTER never showed any indication of having problems with drugs or alcohol lone to two glasses of wine per day).

FOSTER's weight in 1987 was 200 pounds. As of Auguse 1990 he was 207 pounds. His weight on December 31. 1992 was 194 pounds and WATKINS had made a note that he was on a diet and exercising.

WATKINS described FOSTER's personality as oujet, and passive, with a good sense of humor and a dry wit--someone who laughed a lot. FOSTER was not one to come to WATKINS with stresis

OIC 00031.

Clothing, Personal Effoess, External wounds, sears, lattoos, other identitying features: See attached sheol. PATHOLOGICAL OLAGNOSIS:

CARDIOVASCULAR SYSTEM: Heare, no evidence of hyperteophy, valvular or eengenieal obnermalicies. Epi and endocardium, no evidence of fibrosis or inflamation. Coronary arteries, normal origin and diseribucion; no signifleant alceracion all segments. Myocardium, no evidence of fibrosis, inflamacion er infarceion. Aorta, minimal arteriosclerosis.
RESPIRATORY SYSTEM: Larynx, Erachea and bronchi, no evidence of erauma, cbscruccion cr inflamaeion. Lungs, pulmonary congestion; aspiratien or bleod. No evidence of inflamatien or pulmonary arcery emboli. Henidiaphragns ineact.
LIVER: No evidence of traum or inflemation.
SPLEEK: No evidence of graums.
PANCREAS, ADREMAL AND THYROID GLANDS: No stgnificane alceracion.
G.I. TRACT: Ko evidence of craum, hemorrhage or inflamaticn.

GENITOURLRARY TRACT: Kidneys, no evidence of crauma or inflammation. Urinary bladder and genitalia, no significanc alceracion.
HEAD: Perforacing gunshoc. wound - encrance in mouch in peseericr oropharynx uith wound track extending backward and upward with exit from back of hesd.
Cause of Dea:n:
PERFORATING GUHSHOT WOUnD MOUTH - HEAD
Provisional Resort
Final Report

The tacts stated mertin are true and correct to the best of my knowiedge a.ed beliet

